

Assignment: Sit and look at the sculpture "Three Pi" then tell me what you see.

Advisors: Michael Bowdidge and Lisa Osborn

Submitted 12/2/16 by: miChelle Vara

The Sea of "Three Pi"?

This turned out to be a really fun assignment, offering a time-based platform to sit, think and play-expanding personal perception on a wide range of expectations. The exercise created the action of relating words, research and thoughts in review of the finished sculpture piece called "Three Pi". I have never before taken the time to really digest all that goes into my work- until now, -as I am not normally one to move slowly.

This project has been like lightning striking and when the smoke cleared I could see there was no damage.

I reviewed all my notes and look at the sculpture object over a long period of time (ie: three months). I wrote many very literal versions of what I saw- using experience, mathematical, material, philosophical and action in attempt communicate. It has really taken a long process of being prodded and guided-writing, thinking, revisiting, drawing and looking forward -which has allowed the coming to one personally understood sentence. Right or wrong you decide -

"Three Pi"- Alive with transcendental expression that spans mathematical history and philosophical metaphors."

See – Sea – C :

I see Joy in a geometrical landscape.

I see life force and personal point of view.

I see a mathematical equation.

I see a spiritual function.

I see ideas.

I see three over five.

I see the Babylonian table of Pi.

I see dimensions beyond three.

I see changing fractions of physicality, philosophy and mathematics.

I see the value of Pi as being three.

I see the triangle.

I see philosophy.

I see personal values.

I see a boundless diameter of energy being split and engaged by three.

I see reality- distorted.

I see non- reality.

I see energy.

I see a circumference of metaphors.

I see the distance of existence.

I see the circles of experience.

I see a horizon of hope.

I see material activation.

I see a passion for material.

I see soul and spirit.

I see active energy.

I see zeal and vigor.

I see strong emotions.

I see a euphoric high.

I see success.

I see a moment and event.

I see memory.

I see the distance traveled.

I see self.

I see other.

I see relationships.

I see harmony.

I see intent.

I see a creative force.

I see craftsmanship.

I see warm metal colors and reflections.

I see love.

I see intention.

I see communication.

I see passion.

I see fun.

I see time.

I see sound.

I see action.

I see motion.

I see gayety and exuberance.

I see interaction.

I see comedy.

I see connection.

I see beings playful.

I see beings chatting it up.

I see life at its best.

I see the geometry of Joy.